

Information on Doctoral thesis of Fellows Tran Thu Hanh

1. Full name: Tran Thu Hanh
2. Sex: Female
3. Date of birth: August 11, 1972
4. Place of birth: Ha Noi
5. Admission decision number 3611/QD-SDH Dated 22 October, 2009 issued by the President of the Vietnam National University, Hanoi.
6. Changes in academic process: No
7. Official thesis title: "The principle of ensuring impartiality of officials from litigation agencies or litigation participants in the Vietnam criminal procedures code - Theories and practices"
8. Major: Criminal Law and Criminal Procedure Law
9. Code: 62 38 40 01
10. Supervisors: Assoc.Prof. Dr. Nguyen Ngoc Chi and Dr. Pham Manh Hung

11. Summary of the new findings of the thesis:

This is the scientific monograph in criminal law Vietnam study a systematic and synchronization issues and practical reasoning about the principle of ensuring impartiality of officials from litigation agencies or litigation participants in the Vietnam criminal procedures code at the level of a Ph.D. essay. The Ph.D. essay has the following contributions:

- The principle of ensuring the impartiality of officials from litigation agencies and litigation participants takes important role in handling cases objectively, fairly, avoiding the injustice for the unguilties and mitigating the missing-out of criminals
- Due to the importance of impartiality, not only criminal procedures law of many nations but also international judicial institutions include specific regulations on principle of ensuring the impartiality of officials from litigation agencies and litigation participants.
- Nature of the principle is to create a mechanism to ensure respected and enforced impartiality during the handling of criminal cases.
- Describe legal status and enforcement practices of the principle in Vietnam during the past years.
- The thesis suggests the direction to improve and specific solutions in order to enhance the efficiency in applying the principle in Vietnam in current stage, meeting with judicial reform requirements.

12. Practical applicability, if any:

The results of the thesis research makes significant reference to theoretical as well as practical for the criminalist, practice staff, students, graduate students, graduate students specialized judicial criminal, as well as providing the scientific foundation, serving legislative activities and operations of the Criminal Law applies to strive to prevent and combat crime in our country today.

13. Further research direction, if any: Criminal Law, Criminal Law and Criminology.

14. Thesis-related publications:

1) Tran Thu Hanh (2009), "A number of measures to improve the position of team judges in criminal proceedings meet the requirements of judicial reform", Journal of Science (Economics – Law Journal) (2).

2) Tran Thu Hanh (2011), "Completing the organization and operation of the investigating agencies require prior judicial reform", Journal of Law and Democracy, (some specialized agencies of the State Judicial rule of law), p151-160.

3) Tran Thu Hanh (2012), The provisions of the Law on Criminal Procedure Vietnam in the field of international criminal law, in Syllabus International Criminal Law (Nguyen Ngoc Chi eds.), Political Publishing House National - the facts, p.387-418.

4) Tran Thu Hanh (2013), "The Essential Research on the principle of ensuring the impartial conduct of the proceedings or participate in proceedings in criminal law", Journal of Science (Law Journal school) (1), p.27 - 41 .

5) Tran Thu Hanh (2013), "Impartiality and the principle of guarantee the impartiality of Persons conducting or Participating in the Settlement procedure in criminal cases", Journal of Science (Law Journal school) (2), p.16-27,

6) Tran Thu Hanh (2013), "Mechanism to ensure the impartiality of those conducting the proceedings or participate in proceedings in criminal law Vietnam's current", Journal of Science (Law Journal school) (4), p.1-14.